- Students are limited to three courses per semester and a total of 24 hours in the program
- High schools collect the tuition from families and pay one collective tuition bill from JBU

Concurrent Scholarship

For the high school graduates who participated in the concurrent program, JBU is committed to return the student's investment as a scholarship for up to $1,260

$1,260 = 12 concurrent credit hours

How can your school join?

- Complete and submit the partnership application
- The application requires an agreement to JBU's statement of faith and signatures from your school leaders
- The application is a simple two-page document

What is the next step?

Once approved, partner schools will:

- Pre-register the courses they wish to offer the next school year
- Submit teaching applications for potential concurrent instructors
- Advertise to their families and help students apply online
- Attend the Concurrent Teacher Summit (May 6)
